Dive Friends Bonaire Announces Special Coral Spawning Diving Activities and Weekly Packages

Kralendijk, Bonaire, Netherlands Antilles, June 23, 2009

September and October are the months when coral spawning is expected each year on Bonaire. Coral spawning, or the cultivation of the corals, is something unique and a "must-see" for every diver. This spectacular event takes place on Bonaire when several coral species (but also other organisms) release secretions into the water column at the same time under the influence of environmental circumstances such as water temperature and a very special position of the moon.

Any diver has to be very lucky to witness this event, but there is a schedule with forecasted dates for the 2009 coral spawning event (click here to view in PDF format: http://www.dive-friends-bonaire.com/pdfs/coral_spawning2009.pdf).
